PLANNING

What's your game plan?

Whether it's updating your strategic plan, developing a continuity plan, or directly assisting your Emergency Operations Center, CHHS has the expertise to help you every step of the way. Our dedicated staff will guide you through the nuances of the planning process and work with you to build a program, not just a plan. Following trends in federal guidance, CHHS can also help clients with accreditation goals. Clients need to be prepared for anything, and CHHS clients trust that we have the tools to get them there.

PRODUCTS

Strategic Planning

- Be strategic. Strategic planning means setting a roadmap for success. CHHS develops comprehensive strategies using a capabilities-based planning approach, training staff along the way.

Continuity Planning

- Be consistent. With an extensive client history, we have developed, written, and managed Continuity of Operations (COOP) plans for the public sector, Business Continuity plans for the private sector, and Continuity of Government (COG) plans for local, state, and federal jurisdictions. All three types of continuity plans provide comprehensive guides for maintaining an organization's most essential functions following a disruptive event.

Emergency Operations Planning

- Be prepared. Emergency Operations Plans (EOPs) define which government agencies and organizations will do what – as well as when, with what resources, and by what authority – before, during, and immediately after an emergency. Our experts develop realistic and practical plans based on federal guidance and industry best practices.

Emergency Operations Center Planning and Support

- Be effective. When disaster strikes, CHHS has the operational proficiency to support your Emergency Operations Center (EOC). Our expertise fits seamlessly into your EOC while enhancing incident action planning capabilities.

Planning for the Whole Community

- Be engaging. Addressing the needs of your entire community is a critical component of the planning process. CHHS helps clients identify and strengthen community assets by implementing the whole community approach to planning.

Interoperable Communications Planning

- Be interoperable. Communication is the cornerstone of effective response, but without interoperability it is difficult for key personnel to communicate with each other in a crisis. CHHS works with clients to develop governance structures for cross-jurisdictional interoperability, identify and fill interoperability gaps, and exercise interoperable communications capabilities.
